Thank You

We would like to express our profound appreciation and gratitude for the overwhelming support from our entire community to Walt during his ongoing battle with cancer. We truly do not feel that saying thank you could ever be enough.

The pancake breakfast held by the Sherburne Fire Department on March 7, 2026 was a testament to the generosity and kindness of our family, friends, neighbors, co-workers and local businesses.

We especially want to thank the Sherburne Fire Department members and volunteers for their heartfelt time and dedication to this event, and each and everyone of your continued support.

Your support, generosity, and love has been unwavering.

Your kindness and charity has lifted a burden and provided us with immense comfort and strength as we continue this fight. As we navigate these uncertain times and challenges in life it helps having a community behind you. We know we are not the first to forge this path, and unfortunately we won't be the last. It's been a little easier being upheld by you, our community.

We wholeheartedly treasure each and every one of you! Thank you for your continued thoughts, prayers and cards.

Sincerely, Walt Reid, Debbie & Family

In Lessons from the Universe

Whether you've experienced grief, uncertainty, or simply wondered about what lies beyond, Trust the Messages 2 offers comfort, hope, and practical guidance. CAR CARE

WHAT NOISY BRAKES MAY BE TELLING YOU

The only noises many drivers ever want to hear coming from their vehicles are the sounds of their favorite songs blasting from their car stereos. But cars sometimes make noises that aren't nearly as inviting as music. Noises that seem to pop up when applying the brakes can be especially scary for motorists. No one wants to drive a vehicle with faltering or suspect brakes, so learning to distinguish between the two most common brake noises can be a wise move for drivers.

Grinding brakes

That grinding noises indicate a serious problem with the braking system. There are two major causes behind the grinding noise made by brakes. If the grinding sound is audible when pressing on the brake pedal, this likely because the rotor disc is coming into contact with part of the caliper. This typically occurs because the brake pads or rotors are extremely worn down, causing the steel backing of the worn out pad to grind against the rotor. In such instances, mechanics recommend replacing the brake pads immediately.

If the grinding noise is audible while the vehicle is in motion, debris might be stuck inside the brakes. Drivers might be able to dislodge this debris by repeatedly moving their cars forward and backward in a safe place, such as a driveway. If that does not work, have the brakes serviced by a qualified mechanic.

Squealing
Many drivers are familiar with the high-pitched squealing sound that comes from their vehicles or those of fellow motorists. That squeal, while certainly not music to the ears, might be a good thing. Some brake pads are equipped with small steel clips that serve as wear indicators. When brake pads have worn down, these devices produce a squealing sound to let drivers know it's time to get new brake pads. But squealing can be indicative of other things as well. Squealing noises are sometimes heard immediately after brake pads or rotors have been replaced. In such instances, the noise typically subsides within a day or two once the pads have been broken in.

Glazed pads also can create a squealing sound. When calipers stick, the brakes stay partially applied, producing excessive friction or heat. The heat causes the brake pads to glaze. No one wants to hear noises coming from their brakes. However, such noises are often a car's way of telling drivers that brakes need to be serviced. SC203719

TAX GUIDE

The Right to Challenge the IRS's Position and Be Heard

Taxpayers have the right to raise objections and provide additional documentation in response to formal IRS actions or proposed actions, to expect that the IRS will consider their timely objections and documentation promptly and fairly, and to receive a response if the IRS does not agree with their position.

What This Means for You

- If you submit documentation or raise objections during an examination, and the IRS does not agree with your position, it will issue a statutory notice of deficiency explaining why it is increasing your tax, which gives you the right to petition the U.S. Tax Court prior to paying the tax. IRC § 6212

- If you are an individual taxpayer eligible for Low Income Taxpayer Clinic (LITC) assistance (generally your income is at or below 250% of the federal poverty level), the IRS may provide information to you about your eligibility for assistance from an LITC. IRC § 7526

For more information, see IRS Publication 4134, Low Income Taxpayer Clinic List. Or find an LITC near you.

- If you are notified by the IRS that it has adjusted your return because of a mathematical or clerical error, you have 60 days to tell the IRS that you disagree. If the IRS is not persuaded, it will issue you a Statutory Notice of Deficiency proposing a tax adjustment. This notice provides you with a right to challenge the proposed adjustment in Tax Court by filing a petition within 90 days of the date of the notice (150 days if the notice is addressed to a person outside the United States), without first paying the proposed adjustment. IRC § 6213(b)

For more information about the United States Tax Court, see the Court's taxpayer information page.

- Immediately after the IRS files a notice of federal tax lien in the appropriate state filing location, the IRS must generally provide you with an opportunity for a hearing before an independent IRS Appeals/Settlement Officer. At that hearing, you can raise alternatives to the IRS's collection action and may even be able to challenge whether you actually owe the tax. If you disagree with Appeals' determination, you can go to Tax Court. IRC § 6320

For more information about the United States Tax Court, see the Court's taxpayer information page.

- Before the IRS takes its first enforcement action to collect a tax debt by levying, for example, your bank account, the IRS must generally provide you with an opportunity for a hearing before an independent IRS Appeals/Settlement Officer. At that hearing, you can raise alternatives to the IRS's collection action and may even be able to challenge whether you actually owe the tax. If you disagree with Appeals' determination, you can go to Tax Court. IRC § 6330

For more information about the United States Tax Court, see the Court's taxpayer information page.
